

Kathryn M. Tominey

Education:

BS University of Arizona 1968, Chemistry
MBA University of Washington 1975, Operations Systems

Primary Areas of Expertise:

Risk Management as it applies to Enterprises, Programs and Projects -- encompassing process and practices for identification, analysis, management & effectiveness.
Requirements Identification, Analysis and Management – programs and projects
Review, Surveillance Processes, and Analysis of Process Effectiveness

Summary Capabilities:

Risk and Requirements identification, analysis and management for programs and projects. Extensive experience with DOD/DOE template processes and tools including ranking of requirements and risks. Most recent experience was support of a Homeland Security project with a $1.5B budget.

Review and surveillance programs and practices using risk-based, criteria driven techniques to increase cost effectiveness. Risk based techniques used included those that are now a standard part of the recommended best practices for DOE in project risk management.

Led/supported internal process improvement workshops at PNNL in areas of export controls, computer security & corporate level risk assessment for projects.

Managed a quality verification (surveillance, audit and reviews) group for the BWIP nuclear waste repository project. Implemented innovative, risk-based methods for focusing verification and review activities for most cost efficient support to the project.

Managed the integrated HS&E review activity for nuclear waste management projects at Hanford, including demonstrations of new technologies in radioactive and non-radioactive contexts. Project budgets exceeded 500M in 1985 dollars. This assignment included signature authority of the Director, HS&E.

Owns and operates Armagh Rhodesian Ridgebacks, showing and breeding pure-bred Rhodesian Ridgebacks. More than one hundred dogs of her breeding live with owners in Arizona, California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, British Columbia, Alberta, and Saskatchewan. Two of her dogs have been ranked in the top twenty nationally and another is the current Canadian champion Ridgeback.